INTRODUCTION

Every year Statistics Canada publishes over 500 publications on a wealth of subjects of interest and importance to Canadians as well as to persons outside Canada. These publications track the demographic, economic and social development of our country on national, provincial, territorial, municipal and other levels.

The Statistics Canada Publications List 1990 has been designed to help you access our publications. In preparing this list, we used the abstracts published in the Statistics Canada Catalogue 1990. Prices, a "how to order" guide and information concerning discounts and special offers are also included.

A free copy of the Statistics Canada Publications List 1990 is available to individuals in the official language of their choice. Libraries and Resource Centres may request a complimentary set (in French and English). Additional copies can be ordered at $3 each from one of our Regional Reference Centres listed in this publication.

Users of this Publications List should also be aware of the Statistics Canada Catalogue 1990 (11-204E). This research tool contains an expanded subject and author/title index. As well, it describes the full range of services provided by Statistics Canada, including electronic data and special services. The Statistics Canada Catalogue 1990 is $13.95 in Canada, $US17.00 in the United States and $US20.00 in other countries.

Canada's young family home-owners : a family studies teaching kit. 1 portfolio (11 pieces). 1986. E. and F.

DDC 306.8/5/0971.

These are families headed by parents, born during the "baby boom", the period that saw a jump in the national birth rate following World War II. The "boomers" form a population group substantially larger than those before and after them and created special needs as they moved from infancy to adulthood. In the 1980s, many of them head young families and this kit looks at how and where they live and assesses their current impact on society. This kit includes: a set of 9 two-colour transparencies, a topically related census publication, illustrated student worksheets.

Living alone : a family studies teaching kit. 1 portfolio (12 pieces). 1986. E. and F.

DDC 305/.90652/0971.

A single male university graduate and an elderly widow who didn't finish high school are two types of Canadians very likely to live alone. But they are not the only ones. Single-person households have been growing steadily in number since 1956, with a sharp increase from 1971 to 1981. This kit details where our singles live, their educational background, the type of accommodation they occupy and their incomes. This kit includes: a set of 10

The elderly in Canada : a family studies teaching kit. 1 portfolio (14 pieces). 1986. E. and F.

DDC 305.2/6/0971.

From 1971 to 1981, the population aged 65 and over grew by 35% while the country's total population increased just 13%. The trend toward a higher proportion of seniors promises to continue well into the next century, making new demands on our society. This kit includes: a set of two-colour transparencies, a topically related census publication, illustrated student worksheets.

Canada's lone-parent families : a family studies teaching kit. 1 portfolio (9 pieces). 1986. E. and F.

DDC 306.8/56/0971.

The number of single-parent families has been increasing steadily since 1966. Proportionally, more children than ever before are being raised in such households. These families are most likely to have lower incomes and to spend more than the recommended portion of income on shelter. Where these families live, how their incomes compare with those of other Canadians and the types of housing they occupy are examined. This kit includes: a set of 7 two-colour transparencies, a topically related census publication, illustrated student worksheets.

ISSN 0706-0831.
DDC 025/.063171.

Statistics Canada makes available through its network of distributors both the CANSIM main base consisting of some 400,000 economic and financial time series and a subset of some 25,000 time series which is known as the CANSIM mini base. The CANSIM mini base series directory provides a detailed guide to the standard set of some 25,000 of the most popular time series contained in the mini base. The directory includes: a table of contents which identifies, at a fairly aggregate level, the contents of the mini base and provides a link to the series directory; the contents by subject which outlines the contents of the mini base by broad subject categories; and an alphabetical subject index which comprises a list of key words for the full CANSIM main base with the letter "M" indicating mini base contents.

Canadian export classification (based on the Harmonized System) / Statistics Canada, International Trade Division. 618 p. 28 cm. 1987. E. and F.

ISBN 0-660-12492-0.

DDC 382/.0971/0012.

Commencing January 1, 1988, Canadian exporters or their agents will be required to assign an export Harmonized System (H.S.) number to all export transactions. This publication which lists all possible export H.S. codes and their accompanying descriptions is therefore an essential tool in the preparation of customs export documentation. To assist in coding, the publication's introduction includes, among other things, an outline of the classification structure, an overview of the classification of goods, and the general rules for the interpretation of the Harmonized System.

This publication has been designed to be used in conjunction with both the Canadian tariff and imports statistics nomenclature aligned to the structure of the Harmonized commodity description and coding system, published by Revenue Canada (catalogue RV57-1-1-1987E) and the Canadian export classification (based on the Harmonized System) (12-578E). Its purpose is to facilitate the selection of the correct ten-digit import Harmonized System (H.S.) classification number and/or eight-digit export H.S. number based on the user's understanding of a commodity description. Approximately 17,000 product rulings are listed employing the key word principle in determining the alphabetic placement of an individual product descriptor.

National income and expenditure accounts. Quarterly. First issue 1953. Bilingual. (System of national accounts). ISSN 0318-708X.

Each quarter, this publication gives a comprehensive statistical picture of Canadian economic developments. The focus is on Canada's gross domestic product, including such components as consumer spending, business investment, exports, labour income, corporation profits, farm income, government spending and prices. The publication begins with an overview article, reviewing and analyzing economic developments in the most recent quarter. Most issues also contain a second, more technical article explaining national accounts methodology or analyzing a particular aspect of the economy. The main body of the publication consists of 23 statistical tables containing seasonally adjusted quarterly data for the most recent eight-year period.

This publication is a further step in Statistics Canada's initiative to promote the understanding and use of key economic series published by the organization. For the first time, all components of the Canadian System of National Accounts are defined and discussed under one cover. The report covers some principal national accounting tenets and embraces input-output, income and expenditure, financial flows, national balance sheets, balance of payments and the international investment position as well as the key concepts of each component. This publication also devotes a chapter on certain classic issues, and possible extensions and modifications to the System and some more recent concerns about the System of National Accounts. This book is intended for use by those working in the field as a general

SNA INDUSTRY AND COMMODITY STATISTICS

Publications with a catalogue number prefix 15 contain industry and/or commodity information which has been integrated within the System of National Accounts (SNA). SNA publications which are not industry and/or commodity oriented are published under catalogue number prefix 13. SNA industry and commodity groupings may differ from other Statistics Canada official classifications such as the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC). These differences ensure that SNA variables are defined consistently over time and across SNA industry and commodity classifications. In addition, integration of source data within the SNA framework ensures consistency in statistical terms. Nevertheless, SNA industry and commodity definitions are uniquely defined in terms of the other official classification structures.

Demographic and income statistics for postal areas. Annual. First issue 1987. Bilingual.

DDC 339.2/2/0971.

This annual publication brings together various demographic and socio-economic characteristics of tax filers for more than 7,000 postal areas across Canada. Its primary objective is to provide key socio-economic indicators for a number of uses such as marketing, direct mailing, social service planning, regional analysis, provincial and municipal planning, etc. Among the 30 different characteristics provided are the age and sex of tax filers, a distribution of tax filers by level of income, the median income and how it compares to the income reported five years earlier. In addition, each of the 7,000 postal area's median income is compared to the provincial and Canadian figures. This reference manual also includes a special appendix which provides a cross-reference of postal codes, thus facilitating the identification of place names. Also featured is a special highlights section which takes a close look at some of the major trends that have taken place at the national, provincial and regional levels in 1988. This publication is available in five versions: Canada (17-202); Atlantic provinces (17-203); Quebec (17-204); Ontario (17-205) and Western provinces and the Territories (17-206).

Developing a longitudinal database on businesses in the Canadian economy : an approach to the study of employment / Statistics Canada, Business Microdata Integration and Analysis. 127 p. 28 cm. 1988. E. and F.

ISBN 0-660-12669-9.

DDC 331.11/07/2071.

GENERAL AND REFERENCE

This publication outlines how a database on employment by size of firm was created, discusses its current status and potential, and analyses the pitfalls in using it to make assertions about our current knowledge of the role of small business in the dynamics of job creation. The database, created by linking data from survey and administrative sources, is presented in a set of tabulations for 1978 and 1984 and for changes between these two years. The tabulations focus on the labour used by businesses and the data are disaggregated by size of business, life status of the business (continuous, newly identified or no longer identified) and country of control. They are tabulated by industry and by province.

Revisions to the treatment of imputed house rents in the Canadian farm accounts, 1926-1979 / Mike Trant. (Working paper no. 10). 30 p. 28 cm. 1986. E. and F.
ISBN 0-660-11954-4.
DDC 338.1/3/0971.

This publication explains revisions in the treatment of farm house expenses. These revisions were incorporated in the farm income estimates in May 1979. The revisions involved two major changes, the first being the elimination of imputed house rent from the farm accounts and the second being the subtraction, from farm business expenses, of those costs associated with the personal use of farm dwellings. The revisions are explained through a presentation of the background regarding the logic and concepts originally used for handling farm house expenses in the accounts and through the identification of the conceptual problems inherent in the original method. This is followed by a detailed description of the revisions to the treatment of the farm expenses associated with the farm house.

MANUFACTURING

The Census of Manufactures consists of twenty industry group publications. Each of these industry group publications is comprised of a number of two-page bulletins which are released in advance of the annual summary release. The approximately 230 bulletins are identified by the general publication number and a Standard Industrial Classification number.

For example, 32-250B SIC 1011, The Food Industry: Meat and meat products industry (except poultry).

The bulletins each contain three tables which provide principal operating statistics such as financial and employment data for each individual component of the industry group. These data are also aggregated for the industry group and published as a table in the group publication. In addition, the group publication contains commodity input and output data for the industry group. Users have the option of purchasing individual bulletins containing information about a specific industry or alternatively the information can be purchased as a complete set for the industry group. Note: All industry group bulletins have been discontinued.

Institutions assembling collections of Statistics Canada publications should note that each set of bulletins plus each industry group publication assembled together constitutes one publication and should be treated as such.

All publications from the Census of Manufactures end with either -250, -251 or -252.

GENERAL SURVEYS

31-001

Monthly survey of manufacturing. Monthly. First issue, Feb. 1947. Bilingual. ISSN 0840-8238. DDC 338.4/767/0971.

This publication provides estimated values of manufacturers' shipments, inventories and orders by month, based on a sample of about 11,500 establishments. Data are presented by major groups and selected individual industries as defined by the 1980 Standard Industrial Classification as well as aggregates for durable, non-durable and total manufacturing. Principal series are shown with and without adjustment for seasonal variation. Unadjusted shipment totals by province and by major groups within provinces are also shown. These data are used to monitor the business cycle in the key manufacturing sector of the economy; to evaluate and develop financial and industrial policy; and to provide market data at the detailed industry level.

Capacity utilization rates in Canadian manufacturing. Quarterly. First issue, 3rd quarter 1976. Bilingual. ISSN 0700-1517. DDC 338.4/567/0971.

This publication contains a series of quarterly statistical estimates of capacity utilization rates for the manufacturing sector in Canada. Capacity utilization measures, being a comparison of actual with capacity production, can facilitate the analysis of production, investment and prices. Capacity utilization rates are calculated for the Canadian manufacturing sector by major group, according to the 1980 Standard Industrial Classification, as well as for durable, non-durable and total manufacturing aggregates. The publication contains estimates of capacity utilization for the five most recent years; quarterly for the two most recent years and annual estimates for the other three years.

Apparent per capita food consumption in Canada, part I.

Annual. First issue 1979. Bilingual.

ISSN 0226-823X.

DDC 339.4/8664/00971.

This publication contains supply, disposition and per capita disappearance data for the following food groups: cereals, sugars and syrups, pulses and nuts, beverages, dairy products and by-products, poultry, eggs and meats. Per capita disappearance is available on both a retail weight and fresh equivalent basis per day and per year. The 1988 issue also contains a supplement which details the revised methodology for calculating red meat disappearance. Pork per capita consumption is now available on a retail weight basis from 1960 to 1988. In addition, revised estimates of the meat equivalent of animal output for 1981 to 1988 are included.

Air carrier traffic at Canadian airports. Quarterly. First issue 1976. Bilingual.

ISSN 0701-7928.

DDC 387.7/36/0971.

This publication presents statistics on airline traffic such as the volume of flights, passengers and cargo, at Canadian airports. Data on Canadian and foreign airlines' regional and local scheduled services have been added to complement the data previously published on the major scheduled services and major charter services. Civil aircraft movements statistics are also shown, thus, providing the overall perspective of aircraft movements at major Canadian airports. The publication presents several summary tables which have been grouped into sections dealing with overall or specialized views of the airline industry. An analysis of the significant changes which have occurred in the survey period will be provided, by type of service. Annual summary data are included in the fourth quarter issue.

Rail in Canada. Annual. First issue 1987. Bilingual. ISSN 0843-4530.

DDC 385/.0971.

This publication provides information relating to the size and structure of the Canadian rail transport industry. A general overview of the rail industry is presented, focusing on global variables extended over a 25 year period. The six core chapters that follow provide more in-depth analysis on the economic performance, operating outputs, financial structure and equipment use, over shorter time frames. The publication provides a new provincial and territorial origin and destination data series supplied by the National Transportation Agency. The publication also incorporates a special study on the level of competition and cooperation between the rail and truck modes.

Sales per selling area of independent retailers. First issue 1986. Last issue 1986. Bilingual. Discontinued.

ISSN 0835-4960.

DDC 381.1/0971.

The report provides data on independent retailers including space utilization (in sales/square foot and sales/square metre), sales volume, physical size and location of store. Data for a full range of 38 different kinds of business (KOB) are provided at the Canada level. A narrower KOB range is provided at the provincial level of detail. Five store location types are shown: on-street, neighbourhood shopping centre, community shopping centre, regional shopping centre and indoor shopping mall. Four tables are depicted: tables A and B show how the intensity with which space is used varies with the level of sales; tables C and D show how the physical size of a business is associated with its level of sales. Table A, for instance, ranks using sales/square foot of selling area and provides breakdowns by level of sales/square foot for three store characteristics: store sales, physical size, and location type. The ranking order is shown by quartile i.e., the top 25%, the upper middle 25% (those in the 50-75% range), the lower middle 25% (those in the 25-50% range) and finally, the bottom 25%. Note: This publication is out of print and is now a non-catalogued product.

DDC 331.25/2/0971.

This publication presents information on the income, expenditure and assets of all trustee pension funds in Canada in both the public and private sectors. Data are presented at the Canada level. The publication contains an analysis of the funds based on the size of the fund, the number of members and the type of benefit and trust arrangement. It is a continuation of a series of reports produced since 1957. As a single pool of investment capital in Canada, these funds are surpassed in size only by the aggregate reserves held by the chartered banks.

HEALTH INDICATORS DATABASE

In response to the need for centralized health information, the Canadian Centre for Health Information (CCHI) has developed a health indicator database. This database contains 40 indicators with over one million observations and is available in a binder format. The binder is a departure from traditional Statistics Canada's publications. It contains tables and colour graphs which highlight certain aspects of each indicator and, in addition, contains the entire database on personal computer diskettes. Software that retrieves the data, performs data manipulations and produces graphics is also included in the package. This format allows users to customize their data retrieval and analysis in terms of disaggregations, categories and variables.

ISBN 0-660-52872-X.

This publication is the first province-wide analysis of occupational mortality risks in Canada. The authors used information on usual lifetime occupation recorded on death registrations for residents of British Columbia who died between 1950 and 1978. Proportionate mortality ratios (PMR) were used to detect unusual patterns of mortality. Although the data represent only one province, the wide range of occupations in British Columbia makes the publication useful to the country as a whole.

This publication contains data on book publishing and on exclusive distribution of books provided by firms having attained a certain level of revenues. Survey methodology and terminology are described. Figures on published titles and sales in Canada, based on the reporting firms' financial year, are usually broken down by size, language, financial control and province of the firm. Other tables present figures on the financial aid awarded to publishers, their employment data and their average financial position. Data on exclusive agency sales by publishers and distributors give information on another facet of the book industry in Canada. Since 1987-88, tables on publishing and sales of Canadian-authored titles as well as figures on sales outside Canada have been added. This publication, which summarizes the book publishing data bank for a particular year, provides users with the information required for corporate decision-making, monitoring programs and reviewing policies. Scientific and technological change is one of the factors which determine the competitiveness of a firm, sector or economy. It is important to develop indicators of this activity, and thereby describe and understand the scientific and technological system and its role on society and the economy. This publication addresses this need by presenting various indicators such as human resources for science and technology, expenditures on research and development, international transfer of technology, and the use of manufacturing technologies. The topics discussed in this quarterly publication vary from issue to issue, and will correspond to the availability of updated statistics.

Industrial research and development statistics (with forecasts). Annual. First issue 1982. Bilingual.

ISSN 0824-8133.

DDC 607/2/71.

This report summarizes research and development (R&D) activities performed and funded by Canadian business enterprises and industrial research institutes and associations. The data is used, for instance, to plan and evaluate R&D tax incentive programs, to provide indicators of the state of industrial innovation and to complement national aggregates for scientific R&D expenditures and personnel. Among the topics covered are current and capital expenditures on research and development, R&D expenditures as a percent of company sales, energy R&D expenditures by area of technology, sources of funds for intramural R&D, personnel engaged in R&D, and payments for technological services. Most historical tables are presented for 1982 to 1987 and disaggregated by 29 industrial groupings, size of R&D program, employment size, sales size, country of control and, by province with some data available for Montréal, the National Capital Region and Toronto. Canada totals for 1963 to 1989 are published for total R&D expenditures (in current and constant dollars), R&D expenditures compared to Gross Domestic Product, and sources of funds for R&D. Specific enquiries (i.e. survey methodology, reliability of the data) should be directed to the author division.

POPULATION

This series of publications provides final, unrounded population and dwelling counts (1) in a national context (for example, counts for census divisions and census subdivisions across the country are grouped together into a single publication) and (2) in a provincial context (for example, counts for most standard levels of census geography - census division (CD), census subdivision (CSD), census consolidated subdivision (CCS), census metropolitan area (CMA), census agglomeration (CA), primary census metropolitan area (PCMA), primary census agglomeration (PCA), urban and rural - in a province are grouped together in a series of tables in one publication for each province).

POPULATION AND DWELLING COUNTS

Population and Dwelling Counts publications provide population counts for all areas designated as standard census geographic areas in Canada. Measures of change since 1981 are often listed and provide useful comparative data for the reader.

Census divisions and subdivisions. 270 p. 28 cm. 1987. Bilingual.
ISBN 0-660-53450-9.
DDC 304.6/0971.

This publication presents 1986 population counts for 266 census divisions (CDs) and 6009 census subdivisions (CSDs) for each province and territory. Population counts are ranked both provincially and nationally. For example, a given CSD in Newfoundland is ranked according to population as it compares to other CSDs in Newfoundland, and to all other CSDs across Canada. Data are listed alphabetically for CDs in Table 1 and alphabetically, and by decreasing population order for CSDs in Tables 2 and 3, respectively.

POPULATION AND DWELLING CHARACTERISTICS

The Population and Dwelling Characteristics publications present a wide range of census data by variable, selected topics and standard geographic areas.

THE NATION SERIES

These 19 publications are designed to illustrate the scope and depth of information collected by the 1986 Census. This is achieved by presenting considerable detail for selected variables as well as cross-tabulating variables to show the analytical potential of the data. Unless otherwise indicated, data are provided for Canada, the provinces and the territories.

93-101Age, sex and marital status. 132 p. 28 cm. 1987. Bilingual.

ISBN 0-660-53470-3.
DDC 304.6/1/0971.

This publication provides some of the most fundamental demographic information collected during the 1986 Census of Canada. Variables include age, sex and marital status with data presented for 1921 up until 1986. In addition to presenting this historical overview, the five tables that make-up this publication also feature 1981-1986 data comparisons and detailed cross-classifications for 1986.

DIMENSIONS SERIES

Over the years census publication users have expressed considerable interest in particular subject matter. The "Dimensions" series features information on these subject matter, which include profiles on selected populations including ethnic groups and immigrant populations; detailed break-downs and cross-tabulations on occupational trends, industrial trends and language transfer and retention; and an in-depth look at census metropolitan areas. The seven publications contained in this series present data for Canada alone, as well as for Canada, the provinces and the territories.

ISBN 0-660-53642-0.
DDC 305.7/0971.

For some the language most often spoken at home differs from the language first learned in childhood (mother tongue). Taken together, these are referred to as language transfers or language shifts and are a major factor in determining the mother tongue of the next generation. This publication presents 1981 and 1986 Census data on language transfer and retention, based on mother tongue by sex and age, and relative to a number of other variables. These variables include home language, ability to speak Canada's two official languages, and ethnic origin. The data featured in this release are presented in four tables, for Canada, the provinces, the territories as well as for selected census metropolitan areas.

1986 CENSUS

PROFILE SERIES

The profile series provides a wide range of information derived from the 1986 Census of Population for a variety of standard geographic areas. This series is divided into two parts. Part 1 presents statistics collected for all households, 100 % data, that focus on basic demography, housing and families, and for the first time show the living arrangements of non-family persons 65 years and over. Part 2 on the otherhand, features tabulations for one in five households, a 20% sample, that present a detailed picture of each designated geographic area. Data are explored in terms of social, cultural, labour and 1985 income data, with additional information on housing. As seen in this series, "Major Field of Study" has been introduced as a variable for the first time in the 1986 Census, and home language, ethnic origin, mother tongue, place of birth and industry have been highlighted in greater detail. In order to provide more relevant data, a feature called incidence reporting has also been introduced in this series. Incidence reporting lists those categories with the highest counts within selected variables. For example, for census divisions and census subdivisions, mother tongue includes the five non-official languages with the highest count for each province and territory. Users of this series will not only be able to examine data for the provinces, territories and subprovincial geographic levels, but can review statistics for all of Canada. In addition, the alphabetical place name index found at the beginning of each publication will make locating data for a specific geographic area a simpler task.

METROPOLITAN ATLAS SERIES

98-101 to 98-112

Metropolitan atlas series. 12 v. 44 cm. 1989. Bilingual.

DDC 307.7/64/09710223.

This series presents maps, graphs and text detailing 1986 Census results for 12 of Canada's 25 census metropolitan areas (CMAs). Each CMA is featured in a separate publication and includes 35 maps that combine to explore demography, housing, employment and income, and family and social themes. In order to assist readers, and make this series appealing to a wide range of audiences, an introductory text precedes each theme and the text itself is written in non-technical language.

FOCUS ON CANADA SERIES

The Focus on Canada Series consists of 16 descriptive studies featuring data from the 1986 Census and where feasible from past censuses dating back as far as 1871. The studies themselves provide overviews on a wide variety of census subjects from demography to socio-cultural and economic characteristics. The series is written in non-technical language supported by simple tables and charts which make it accessible to a broad audience.

This publication presents data on where

1986 CENSUS

Canadians live and patterns of population change for Canada, the provinces, the territories and other standard geographic areas. Data are derived from past censuses beginning in 1871 up until the 1986 Census. The concentration of Canadian population near the U.S. border; changes in the urban and rural composition of Canada; and changes in the population of Canada's 25 census metropolitan areas are just some of the subject matter that make this release a valuable reference source.

This study features 1986 Census data as well as data from earlier censuses to provide a historical perspective of Canada's elderly population. Data on average annual growth rates and the composition of the population 65 years and over for Canada, the provinces and the territories are explored in relation to marital status, age groups and sex. In addition, comparisons between the size of Canada's aging population and that of other countries are also reviewed. Taken together, the data presented in this release will provide the reader with some useful information and perhaps lay the groundwork for some detailed analyses.

This descriptive report features 1986 Census data on the demographic, economic and social conditions of aboriginal and non-aboriginal populations living in the North. More specifically, these populations are presented in terms of linguistic diversity, level of education, labour and income characteristics, housing conditions and a number of other variables. In addition, this report includes comparisons between various populations of Canada's North, as well as between the populations of Canada's northern and southern regions. For purposes of this publication, Canada's North includes the Yukon and Northwest Territories, Labrador and Northern Quebec around Ungava Bay and Hudson Bay. Some data from the 1981 Census are also presented in this release.

This study presents Census data from 1951 up until 1986 on inner cities located in 12 census metropolitan areas (CMAs) across Canada. Some of the topics explored include the extent of differences between inner cities and their outlying areas, similarities and differences between the inner cities themselves, and whether inner cities have undergone revitalization in recent years. These themes are examined in terms of age, sex, marital status, ethnic concentration and socio-economic characteristics and thus provide readers with an in-depth look at the fabric of the inner city.

This study presents a profile on "young Canadians" between the ages of 15 to 24, as defined by the 1986 Census. Data from both the 1981 and 1986 Censuses are often shown together in this study and focus on Canada's youth in terms of demographic structure, living arrangements, education, work activity and income. In addition, wherever possible, data are presented for two subgroups and for the entire youth population, for Canada, the provinces and the territories. The subgroups consist of "teens", aged 15 to 19 and "young adults", aged 20 to 24. They are categorized in this way in order to portray a more accurate picture of one of Canada's most valuable resources---our children.

This publication provides a descriptive analysis of women's labour force participation for women who are employed, unemployed and for women who have never been in the labour force. Women are explored in terms of industry, occupation, age, average employment income, marital status, presence of children and education. A number of tables contained in this study also provide comparative analysis between women and men across many of the same variables. In this study, Census data from 1986, data from earlier censuses between 1971 and 1986, and data from related surveys are presented mainly for Canada with only a brief examination of regional variations.

DDC 338.4/33635/0971.

This study features 1986 Census data on how much Canadians spend on housing in relation to their income. In particular, problems of affordability and the causes of these problems are examined for both tenants and home-owners, for Canada, the provinces and selected census metropolitan areas. (Problems of affordability are defined as the allocation of 30% or more of a household's income to housing expenses.) The subject matter presented in this report are explored in terms of housing prices, average gross rent, dwelling type, tenure, age of household maintainer, household income and geographic location. In order to provide a more historic overview, two charts also feature 1976 to 1981 data on dwelling starts and mortgage rates for all of Canada.

Canada, a linguistic profile / by Robert Bourbeau. 37 p. 26 cm. 1989. Bilingual.

ISBN 0-660-54023-1.

DDC 409/.71.

This study takes a close look at Canada's linguistic diversity by presenting statistical data from 1941, 1971, and from 1981 up until 1986, for Canada, the provinces, the territories, three major census metropolitan areas and/or other designated geographic areas. In order to best explore this theme, three principal variables have been employed. These include mother tongue or the first language learned in childhood; the language most often spoken at home; and the ability to speak Canada's two official languages, English and French. In turn, these variables have been used to measure the size and distribution of language groups across the country and to study the evolution of language minorities and bilingualism.

This study reviews the changing ethnic profile of Canada's population based on data collected from the 1986 Census, as well as from selected earlier censuses dating back as far as 1901. These data were collected on a 100% basis and a 20% sample basis for Canada, the provinces and the territories. Census data for Canada's immigrant and non-immigrant populations are presented in terms of a number of variables. These include age group, sex, period of immigration, mother tongue, place of birth and ethnic origin. The concepts of cultural mosaic and melting pot are also examined in this study in relation to Canada's ethnic profile.

ISBN 0-660-12508-0.

DDC 307.12/0971.

This reference publication provides readers with a means of comparing 1981 and 1986 data for census metropolitan areas (CMAs) and census agglomerations (CAs). Altogether, four tables make-up this release, with regular CMAs and CAs presented in Tables 1A and 2A, respectively, and consolidated CMAs and CAs presented in Tables 1B and 2B, respectively. Consolidated CMAs and CAs are broken-down further into their constituent primary census metropolitan areas (PCMAs) and primary census agglomerations (PCAs), and the component census subdivisions of each are listed. Census subdivisions are also listed for CMAs and CAs in all four tables, according to 1981 and 1986 delineations. Finally, the six appendices found at the end of the release will give readers the opportunity to gain quick access to some useful resource material on the subject matter.

ISBN 0-660-13341-5.

DDC 331.7/00971.

The purpose of this document is to provide users of the 1986 Census occupation data with some background information on the collection, coding and production of occupation data and to alert users to the potential problems or intricacies of the data. After a brief overview of the processing cycle, an analysis of the data by major group is presented. This analysis compares the 1986 Census occupation data with that produced in 1981 and, where applicable, with other sources of data, to verify trends and identify inconsistencies.

This publication provides users with detailed information as well as guidelines to enhance their understanding of 1986 Census data on families. Discussions in this release focus on the collection of data during the 1981 and 1986 Census as well as some data previously unpublished in regular census products. In addition, concepts pertaining to the identification of families as well as terms used to describe families such as common-law partnerships, census and economic families, and aboriginal and immigrant families are also explored. Taken together, these aspects and a review of some of the questions presented in the Census of Canada provide users with a closer look at the way this type of information is collected and processed, and hence the quality of the data itself.

ENUMERATION AREA REFERENCE LISTS

This series consists of 10 geographic reference lists for the 1986 Census of Canada. Each publication identifies the linkage between the basic and usually smallest geographic unit of census collection called the enumeration area, and various other standard geographic areas for which 1986 Census data have been tabulated. In order to ensure accurate comparisons of data over time, users should recall that census geographic areas are subject to change from one census to the next; this applies to both enumeration areas and most standard geographic areas.

Census divisions and subdivisions. 4 v. 28 cm. 1987. Bilingual.

DDC 304.6/0971.

The four publications listed below contain a table and four indexes for each of the ten provinces and two territories presented. The table allows the user to identify the enumeration areas in each census subdivision (CSD), with the CSDs presented in alphabetical order within each census consolidated subdivision (CCS). CCSs are presented in code order within each census division (CD) and the CDs are presented in alphabetical order within each province. In addition, the four indexes list

CDs, CCSs, CSDs and urban areas to assist users in locating a specific geographic area within a table.

Census tracts. 206 p. 28 cm. 1987. Bilingual.

ISBN 0-660-53532-7.

DDC 304.6/0971.

This publication is made-up of one table that features census tracts listed in numerical order, located within 25 census metropolitan areas (CMAs) and 12 census agglomerations (CAs) in Canada. The CMAs and CAs are listed in alphabetical order and all enumeration areas, primary census metropolitan areas (PCMAS), primary census agglomerations (PCAs), census subdivisions (CSDs) and CMA/CA parts for each census tract are easily identified. In addition, the two indexes to the table enable users to locate all census tracts found within CSD, PCMA and PCA areas of tracted census metropolitan areas and census agglomerations.

Provincial census tracts. 4 v. 28 cm. 1987. Bilingual.

DDC 304.6/0971.

The single table found in each of these four publications presents all provincial census tracts in numerical order within each province and territory and identifies the census enumeration area(s) within each tract itself. Each table also features the census divisions and census subdivisions in which each provincial census tract is located. Finally, an index to the table is found in each release and gives users interested in specific census subdivisions the opportunity to identify and locate the corresponding provincial census tract in the table.

Census metropolitan areas and census agglomerations. 148 p. 28 cm. 1987. Bilingual.

ISBN 0-660-53537-8.

DDC 304.6/0971.

The two tables that make-up this publication present the 25 census metropolitan areas (CMAs) and 114 census agglomerations (CAs) delineated for Canada, and identify all the enumeration areas within them. Both tables list all CMAs and CAs alphabetically, with Table 1 identifying all component census subdivisions (CSDs), and Table 2 identifying all provincial census tracts or parts of provincial census tracts within each census agglomeration. Two indexes to this publication also prove useful by helping readers to easily identify and locate specific primary census metropolitan areas, primary census agglomerations and component census subdivisions within the tables.

Equivalent enumeration areas, 1986 and 1981. 403 p. 28 cm. 1988. Bilingual.
ISBN 0-660-53538-6.
DDC 304.6/0971.

This reference publication contains five tables for each province and territory, that list the geographically equivalent enumeration areas (EAs) of the 1981 and 1986 Censuses. The first two tables identify those enumeration areas for which there is one to one correspondence between 1981 and 1986. The third table lists all geographically equivalent groups of EAs in each province and territory for the same census years, and finally the remaining two tables serve as indexes to Table 3. By accessing this publication users may find comparisons between 1981 and 1986 Census data, at the EA level, a simplified task.

DDC 304.6/0971.

In a massive undertaking such as the census, the results are never perfect. Although considerable effort has been made to maintain high standards of quality, errors inevitably occur at various stages of the collection and processing operations. This publication presents the nature and scope of any errors that the census data may contain, as well as the risks involved in basing conclusions or decisions on these data. The publication explains the different type of coverage errors and where in the census process they can occur. It also describes the various studies conducted to investigate the incidence of coverage errors in the census. The results of the various studies are also presented.

ISBN 0-660-13331-8.
DDC 354.710081/9.

This reference publication provides insight into the wide range of activities involved in undertaking the 1986 Census of Canada. More specifically, it focuses on the planning, procedures and systems required to carry out and complete the Census. Particular attention is given to changes and improvements in the 1986 Census (relative to the 1981 Census) and to special issues that were addressed. This publication complements two other general reference publications on the 1986 Census: the Census Dictionary (Cat. no. 99-101E) and the Census Handbook (Cat. no. 99-104E). It is hoped that all three references will help users to better understand and correctly interpret 1986 Census data.

HOW TO ORDER PUBLICATIONS

How to Subscribe to a Periodical Publication

You can subscribe to any Statistics Canada publication that is issued regularly. Within this publications list these are identified as daily, weekly, monthly, quarterly, semi-annual or annual.

As a subscriber, you will receive new issues of the publications you have ordered as they are released. And throughout the year, you will receive announcements of new products allowing you to update your library of statistical information.

To subscribe to any Statistics Canada publication, remember to list the annual subscription price and write an "S" in the issue column of the order form provided.

How to Order Single Issues

You may wish to order a single copy of a publication before subscribing for an entire year. To order a single copy of any publication or series, remember to list the single issue price when ordering. You will receive a copy of the most recent issue.

Many publications listed in this catalogue are issued only occasionally. When ordering these titles, simply list the applicable Canadian, U.S. or foreign price. Again, you will receive a copy of the most recent issue.

You may order any Statistics Canada publication using the enclosed order forms.

Order by Mail

Order your Statistics Canada publications by mail from...

... or from one of our Regional Reference Centres listed on page 90. For your convenience, bookstores and subscription agents are also listed on page 92.

Order by Phone or FAX

To order by phone, call Publication Sales at 1-613-951-7277 or, in Canada, use the national toll-free number 1-800-267-6677. You may also facsimile your order using the enclosed coupon by dialing 1-613-951-1584.

It is not necessary to send a confirmation copy of orders sent by FAX.

Help us to serve you better and more quickly by using the telephone or facsimile with your VISA or MasterCard.

Purchase in Person

You can purchase publications at any Statistics Canada Regional Reference Centre, at many local bookstores, and from authorized agents' outlets. See listings on pages 90 to 92.

Order Electronically

CAN/OLE users may submit their purchase or interlibrary loan orders for Statistics Canada publications electronically, using CAN/DOC. This system allows users to identify publications of their choice on STATCAN and then purchase the items by completing an online order form. Various methods of payment are indicated on the order form. Statistics Canada items not identified on STATCAN may also be requested.

Payment

All publication orders are payable to the Receiver General for Canada/Publications. Payment may be made by cheque or money order. Clients may also charge orders to their MasterCard or VISA accounts. Canadian clients pay in Canadian funds. Clients from United States and other countries pay in US$ drawn on a US bank.

Prices

Prices listed in the Statistics Canada Publications List 1990 are subject to change without notice. To check current publication prices, call 1-613-951-7277 or call any Statistics Canada Regional Reference Centre. They will gladly provide information or ordering assistance. Alternatively, you may call 1-800-267-6677 for ordering assistance.

Goods and Services Tax – Canadian Customers

After January 1, 1991, Canadian customers must include the 7% Goods and Services Tax in the amount payable. A space has been provided on the order forms.

Discounts

Please refer to page 88 and 89 for information on Statistics Canada discounts and money-saving packages.

DISCOUNTS ON STATISTICS CANADA PUBLICATIONS

Please note that discounts are applied to the price of the publication and not to the total amount which might include special shipping and handling charges and the G.S.T.

a) Educational Institutions and Libraries

Schools, school boards, colleges, universities and public libraries receive a 30% discount on all publications. If you're not sure whether your organization qualifies for a discount, call 1-613-951-7277 or your local Regional Reference Centre.

b) Bookstores

Regular bookstores receive a 40% discount on non-subscription orders and a 30% discount on subscription orders.

c) Authorized Agents

Booksellers and distributors who are Authorized Agents (by Supply and Services Canada) receive a 46% discount on non-subscription orders and a 30% discount on subscription orders.

d) Volume Discounts

Volume discounts are offered on multiple copies of the same publication that are shipped to one address. The schedule of volume discounts follows.

10-25 copies – 20%
 26-50 copies – 30%
 51-100 copies – 40%
 100 or more copies – call our Publication Sales personnel at 1-613-951-8926 to determine the discount that will apply to your order.

e) Back Issue Discounts

A Statistics Canada periodical is designated a back issue when it has been replaced by a more recent issue. Clients are entitled to a 70% discount and Bookstores an 82% discount off the cover price of all back issues.

Periodicals, selected occasionals, and 1981 Census publications are all included in the back issues program. The Daily, Infomat, Survey Methodology and the four most recent editions of Canadian Social Trends, Perspectives on Labour and Income and Health Reports are excluded from the program.

Statistics Canada fills orders for back issues as inventory permits. The minimum order, which must be prepaid, is $20.00. Please contact our Publication Sales personnel at 1-613-951-7277 to confirm price and availability.

f) Canadian Social Trends (11-008E) Discounts

Student – Students can subscribe to Canadian Social Trends at 30% off the regular subscription price of $34.00 in Canada, US$40.00 in the United States and US$48.00 in other countries.

Multiple Subscription – Clients can receive five subscriptions to Canadian Social Trends for the price of three, provided all subscriptions have the same mailing address. This applies to any multiple of the 5 for 3 formula.

Pick a Topic . . . Any Topic

Now a redesigned Statistics Canada Catalogue will simplify your search for the most up-to-date or historic facts. Over 170 pages of new indexing will provide easy access to thousands of Statistics Canada publications and other sources. An expanded and improved keyword index, cross referencing, increased subject detail and listings by geographical area point the way to your data needs.

At last, help for organizations, libraries and corporate researchers in finding key statistics like consumer price indexes, import/export figures, or population characteristics down to the village level.

Know the topic but not the "official title"? Go to the subject index where you'll find common topics and statistical titles cross-referenced. No matter how wide or narrow the topic—or how little you know about it—you'll appreciate how quickly the cross-referencing leads you to the right source.

From the most popular topics of the day like employment, income, trade and education to more detailed research studies like copies of french-language Canadian books sold in New Brunswick or hectares of durum wheat seeded around Saskatoon, you'll find it all!

And this expanded edition of the Statistics Canada Catalogue includes descriptions of the full range of our services:

- * publications * reports * microfiche
- * digital boundary files * diskettes
- * maps * CANSIM * microdata files

Many of our electronic product listings include the name and phone number of a contact within Statistics Canada allowing you a direct line to more detailed information.

As always, you'll find sections on how to get more help . . . on-line search techniques in libraries . . . discount and order information . . . the locations of our Reference Centres . . . and a new listing of major retail outlets where you may purchase Statistics Canada products.

For completeness and accuracy in your information search get the Statistics Canada Catalogue (cat. # 11-204E) for $13.95 in Canada, US$17.00 in the U.S. and US$20.00 in other countries.
